Loans - Of Interest To Veterans

More than 11,700 veterans and servicemen were released from liability for their GI loans last fiscal year, and the Veterans Administration is urging others to request releases when new purchasers assume loans on homes bought with GI loans.

"There's a good reason for obtaining a release," VA Regional Office in Roanoke explained, since without it the seller could be held financially liable should purchaser default on mortgage payments."

VA grants releases provided the veteran's loan is current, the prospective purchaser agrees to assume the veteran's liabilities and the purchase is a good credit risk with sufficient income to meet assumed mortgage payments.

VA pointed out, however, that a release does not automatically restore GI loan eligibility the veteran used to purchase the home being sold. Under the law, veterans may qualify for restoration if VA has been relieved of liability and if the property was disposed of for "compelling reasons."

As soon as a purchaser agrees to assume a GI home loan, the veteran-seller should apply for a release from the VA office which guaranteed the loan, VA advised.

LC Presents Dracula Tonight

Set in the turn of the century Edwardian England, when a dark and sinister force seemed to have invaded the island, Dracula a production by the Lynchburg College Theatre about the legendary Count and the mysterious events which surrounded him, will open Thurs., Nov. 21, for a five-night run in the Dillard Fine Arts Building.

All performances are at 8: p.m. and reservations may be made by calling the department of dramatic arts, ext. 242.

Director Joseph B. Germain states that his adaptation "seeks to recapture the gothic horror" of the novel by the same name. Stage manager for the production will be Robert L. Bogan, an LC senior dramatic arts major from Phoenix, Ariz. Lighting and sets are designed by Sr. Germain, and costuming is by Mrs. Diana L. Hawfield, instructor in dramatic arts.

Included in the cast are Mark Bower as Dracula; Robert Swiggard as Jonathon Harker; William Weir as Quincey Morris; Mike Goodwin as Renfield; Wayne Watson, playing the part of the Attendant; Jeff Slaunis as Dr. Seward; Carol Bennett as Mina Seward; Carla Mayhew as Lucy Westerna; Suzy Kunche as Miss Wells. Dr. Clifton Potter, Associate professor of history at the College is playing the part of Professor Van Helsing.
